01 TOURNAMENT OVERVIEW

The ATP Challenger 75 Dublin 2026 marks a landmark moment for Irish tennis: the return of professional men's ATP tennis to Ireland for the first time since 2008. Hosted at the prestigious Elm Park Golf & Sports Club in Dublin 4, the tournament sits on the ATP Challenger Tour, the world's premier development circuit and the primary pathway for players seeking to climb the ATP Rankings toward the main Tour.

The tournament takes place in the week immediately preceding the start of Wimbledon qualifying, placing it at a strategically significant point in the international grass-court season. This timing, combined with the ATP 75 prize fund, is expected to attract a strong international field of ranked professionals.

02 WHY THIS MATTERS

A milestone for Irish tennis

Ireland has not hosted a professional men's ATP event since 2008, a gap of nearly two decades. The return of Challenger-level tennis represents a significant step forward for the sport's profile and infrastructure in Ireland, and demonstrates Tennis Ireland's ambition to grow the game at every level.

The ATP Challenger circuit in context

The ATP Challenger Tour is the primary feeder circuit to the ATP Tour. Many of the world's top players, including Grand Slam champions, built their careers through Challenger events. The tour provides a platform for ranked professionals and emerging talent from around the world to compete for ranking points and prize money in a professional tournament environment.

Strategic timing

The tournament falls in the week before Wimbledon qualifying begins, positioning Dublin as an attractive grass-court preparation event for players targeting the world's most famous Grand Slam. This timing is expected to support a competitive international entry list.
